

Decrees of Fate

It is the right time of the year, and this month seems to be perfect. Fate has its way of just showing up at unexpected times. I knew the first day you walked into my path you were heaven sent. Life truly is a paradise once you meet your soul mate. If you only knew what you do to me (or I do to myself) when you enter a room; the energies are radiant, an aura of love felt emotions. If ever there were a purpose to discard all obstacles in my life's adventure, you would be my focal point. I once was in love with the thought of being in love, but my perception of loving you is love in the purest sense. You are beautiful in every way. It's obvious to me this love is an original masterpiece, and lives above self imposed limitations.

The triangle and strength in the bonding of our love is a pyramid of perfection: you, me, and our Divine Source of Love...our Heavenly Father. So, you see, my love, I have the vision, we'll share the feelings and live within our dream. I'll never forget when you first entered the room; you calmed the air, you glowed with beauty, you became more powerful than the sun...and all of the plants opened their leaves to your direction. The love I see inside of you is never ending, its foundation is solid. I'm so deep inside your love, it's a radiant glow and embraces energy that can only be felt and seen by you. It's a beautiful gift of love when you not only see with your eyes, but through your eyes. You, my love, are everything that's beautiful; the sun could never rise without you and every breath I take is for us...

The beauty of this letter is I live within these feelings, they are not imagined. As soon as the Lord brings us together, I'll give to you this letter for you.

I Love You...
